Simon Wiesenthal Center International Advocacy Internship Program

For the summer of 2025, the Simon Wiesenthal Center is proud to announce the third year of its one of a kind, local International Advocacy Internship Program, centered on encouraging and educating the next generation of Jewish leaders as to the mechanisms of advocacy in international affairs via exposure to national consulates, United Nations missions, international organizations, and policy generating think tanks. In its inaugural year, the program will select up to twenty-five college and graduate school-aged students from the New York, Connecticut, and New Jersey regions.

Program Description

- Interns will have the opportunity to receive hands-on experience in the offices of consulates representing various international governments, United Nations missions, and international organizations to learn about mechanisms of political movement in a dynamic, intellectually rigorous environment.
- Interns will participate in regular workshop sessions with consular officials, top lobbyists, issue-based advocates, and Jewish leaders on the international scene to understand the currents of effective Jewish communal advocacy on an international based issue approach.
- Interns will be partnered with mentors who are successful in shaping front-line policy decisions and who are renowned in their fields to gain insight and guidance from an insider perspective.

Selected participants will be eligible to earn academic credit by enrolling in a seminar and internship course on their college campus.

Program Requirements

1. The Simon Wiesenthal Center's Government Advocacy Internship Program will span a period of eight (8) weeks over each summer.
2. Participants will be required to commit at least four days a week for their internship during regular business hours, as well as one weekly dinner/evening workshop session.
3. The program will include an orientation with the Eastern Director of the Simon Wiesenthal Center, along with weekly advocacy training workshop dinner sessions, to be scheduled throughout the internships.

At the successful completion of the program's minimum requirements, participants will be provided a financial stipend of $1500.

Program Eligibility

The program is open to any college or graduate level student who has a minimum standing of rising college freshman. Students who wish to be considered should demonstrate an interest in public policy and a commitment to the future of Jewish communal advocacy.

Simon Wiesenthal Center International Advocacy Internship Program

The Simon Wiesenthal Center International Advocacy Internship Program will expose students to public policy, legislation, and advocacy to combat antisemitism, fight bigotry and stereotyping, and ensure proper legal and de-facto treatment of the Jewish community across the international policy spectrum.

This program will serve as a critical tool in preparing next-generation Jewish Community leaders to impact, and advocate on issues that affect communal interests.
